

From 28 September to 7 October, Centre Antoni Tur "Gabrielet" will host "Stop global warming", a collective exhibition directed by artist Sol Courreges in a bid to highlight the urgent need to stop global warming. Courreges enlists old fire extinguishers personalised by more than twenty artists to convey one message: "If one fire extinguisher can put out a fire, lots of extinguishers can put an end to global warming". Half of proceeds from fire extinguisher sales will go to Greenpeace.

The exhibition will be open from 10.00am to 2.00pm and 6.00pm to 9.00pm.
