

The office of local holidays of the Formentera Council has suspended today's Carnival celebrations due to rough weather conditions. «If weather permits, Carnival will be held next Sunday 14 February», declared the CiF's councillor of culture, Susana Labrador, who lamented having to postpone the popular gathering. «We hope everyone will come out next week, despite the extra effort involved», she said, encouraging all who had prepared fancy dress costumes to hold onto them. «We'll try again next Sunday», the councillor promised.
