The Formentera Office of Culture reports that there are still places available for the digital photography course (level one) taught by photographer José Antonio Arribas. The course lasts twelve hours and will take place from 21 to 30 November. Classes are part theoretical part hands-on, allowing students to learn various photographic techniques in and out of the classroom, with a camera or cell phone. This course is for people who want to get the most out of their reflex camera, compact camera or smart-phone and work in depth with an array of photographic disciplines.

Classes will be held at the new Espai Cultural de Sant Ferran, and the registration fee is €90. Under-25s, retirees and people with a disability accredited at or above 33% will enjoy a 30% discount.

Registrations can be completed at the OVAC or the OAC.
