

The Formentera Council announces four job postings, one of which, for an administrative assistant, is a roll-over from an earlier initiative to create a pool of potential reserve staff. In the works since June, that effort turned up seven pre-approved candidates.

The terms and conditions of the latest call for applicants are available for review on the bulletin board of the Council's website. They will remain posted on the Balearic Islands' official gazette till the end of next week, in line with the ten-day deadline for applicants.

Hiring specialist

The second listing is for a hiring professional, with either extended administrative training or in possession of a university degree, to cover the Council's permanent employee during roughly eight months. The terms of that offer are available on the website of the regional job service, SOIB, until September 6, which is the deadline for applications.

Agricultural specialist

The third offer—for an individual trained in agriculture, with farming-specific higher technical training or studies in engineering—will help fill the approximately one-year opening of a staff member on leave. The terms of that offer are likewise available through September 6 on the SOIB website.

Sports monitor

Lastly, the Council announces two positions for sports monitors to guide classes in the swimming pool and fitness centre. The offer will be listed on SOIB's website until the application deadline, August 29.
