The Consell de Formentera has contracted an expert professor in administrative law at the University of the Balearic Islands to draft a legal report exploring all possible ways to guarantee seasonal services on the island's beaches. The Consell de Formentera's priority is to offer this service as soon as possible. Amid the large number of appeals currently being filed concerning public tender of beach service contracts, as well as two administrative disputes filed last week, the Consell requests this legal report as a legal guarantee to exhaust all options to offer the service this season.

Further, the Consell highlights the work of the administration's technical staff as well as their independence and commitment throughout the process, which is being carried out with rigour and in line with current legislation. External legal counsel has also been requested to expedite the process and to respond to allegations and appeals.
