

Once again, the Formentera Island Council's Office of Culture and Local Patrimony rolls out a wide variety of educational opportunities for the autumn and winter months with its programme of Workshops and Courses for Adults 2013/2014.

This year's catalogue remains true to the perennial objective of offering an ever diversified selection of workshops and courses that meet the demands (both in education as well as leisure) of the local population.

Thus, composing the 2013/2014 offering of courses are modules in English and Italian language and yoga, all yearly fixtures. The year's offering of workshops has received the new heading, Art and Creation. This selection includes a workshop on creation and painting, a workshop on dressmaking (levels one and two) and – new this year – a workshop on woodworking to be given by resident sculptor Aaron Keydar.

Pre-registration will be open from 1 to 25 October and course activity will begin in November. Courses that fail to reach the established minimum of students will not be held. Interested individuals can visit the Office of Culture and Local Patrimony for more detailed information, or can go to the Citizen Information Office from 9 am to 2 pm to register directly.

This selection of courses complements the existing selection of courses in traditional artisanry and agriculture, all of which are intended as measures to increase wintertime educational opportunities on the island.
