

On Sunday, 8 November, pedagogue, music therapist, singer and songwriter Dàmaris Gelabert will take the stage for a 5:30-p.m. show in the Sant Francesc cinema (la sala de Cultura). For Gelabert, nothing beats music as a way to reach young audiences. Her website, Tot Sona, has this to say about the talented singer's take on things: «Not only do songs educate, they allow emotional bonds to form». Cultural councillor Susana Labrador noted her department's eagerness to support more family-oriented acts such as this one, «so that culture becomes important early on for Formentera kids».

At Sunday's concert Gelabert will perform some of her best-known numbers. Tickets are 8 euros for adults (16 and up) and 6 euros for children (1 to 16). They can be purchased online at <http://www.damarisgelabert.com/venda-entrades/> or thirty minutes before showtime at the box office. A number of Gelabert's CDs will also be on sale at the event on Sunday.
